3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions :

One day we say, "I wouldn't be seen dead in it," and the next day we're wearing it! The big fashion houses in London, Paris and Milan decide what we should wear from year to year. For a time, it is fashionable for men to wear narrow trousers and wide ties until baggy trousers and narrow ties take their place.

Fashion is a term used to describe the creation of clothing, footwear, accessories, cosmetics and jewellery.

Fashion decides how we should appear; not only the clothes we wear but shoes, hair, handbags and jewellery. Even if we think we can ignore fashions, we have to buy the clothes that designers think we should wear.

Following fashion is important to the extent that it is part of who you are and where you are going. You can follow fashion, relate it to your personal life but not necessarily "be in it" or have a closet full of innovative designs. For example, you might follow trends and trendsetters, know what designers are doing for the following season but stick to your regular jeans and T-shirt attire but have that special bag that keeps your look sharp and smart. I would consider that fashion.

1. What is meant by "I wouldn't be seen dead in it"?

- a. I love it, and I advise everyone to wear it.
- b. It is impossible for me to die because I wear it.
- c. I hate it, and I'd never die.

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Octopuses are extremely intelligent. They have even learnt a few tricks to get them out of sticky situations. For example, they are afraid of a predator. As octopuses don't have teeth or sharp claws to defend themselves, they hide in the sand on the bottom of the ocean floor. The octopus is like a chameleon because it can change the colour of its skin to match the sand.

Some octopuses like to stay in more shallow water where there are rocks and coral. However, octopuses can squeeze themselves into small spaces between the rocks to get out of reach of predators. Another way an octopus can use to hide is by shooting ink. An octopus uses a part of its body called a siphon to shoot ink into the water. The ink forms a cloud that hides the octopus. It's like a magician doing a vanishing act.

If an octopus is being attacked, it can actually make itself look like a venomous sea snake. It will bury itself in the sand, keeping two arms visible. If an octopus is in trouble, it can break off one of its arms. The arm will then change colours and squirm around the water to distract the predator while the octopus swims away to safety. Amazingly, the octopus's arm will grow back.

1. A is an animal that attacks and kills octopuses.
 a. prey b. predator c. chameleon d. magician

 c. catch a prey d. lay eggs
5. The octopus can shoot ink into the water which
 a. kills the attackers b. helps it hide from the attackers
 c. attracts preys d. pollutes the water

6. Octopuses don't have teeth or sharp claws to defend themselves
- so, they are eating easily when attacking predators
 - moreover, they are not brave
 - that's why they are about to extinct
 - however, they have other ways to keep enemies away

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Water is one of our planet's most precious resources, yet it is often taken for granted. Every day, we use water for drinking, cooking, cleaning, and growing our food. However, many regions around the world face water shortages, making it crucial for everyone to understand the importance of conservation.

Saving water is not difficult. Simple habits can make a big difference. For example, turning off the tap while brushing your teeth can save many liters of water each day. Taking shorter showers and fixing leaking pipes promptly are also effective ways to reduce waste. Furthermore, collecting rainwater to water plants is an excellent method for gardeners.

The benefits of conserving water are extensive. It helps to preserve the environment by protecting lakes and rivers, ensures there is enough water for future generations, and reduces the energy required to process and deliver water to our homes. This, in turn, can lower our utility bills. By being mindful of our water use, we contribute to a more sustainable world. Every drop truly counts.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

In today's world, energy plays an important role in our daily lives. We need it to cook food, light our homes, and run machines. For many years, people have depended on oil, coal, and gas. These sources give us power, but they also pollute the air and increase global warming.

Because of these problems, many countries are turning to renewable energy. This means using natural resources that will not run out, such as the sun, the wind, and water. Solar panels change sunlight into electricity. Wind turbines use the power of the wind to make energy. Dams and rivers can also produce electricity through water power.

Renewable energy has many advantages. It is clean, safe, and helps reduce pollution. It also creates jobs in new industries. However, there are some challenges. For example, solar energy cannot be used at night or on cloudy days, and wind energy is not possible without strong winds.

Even with these limits, experts believe renewable energy is the future. It will help protect the environment and make sure we do not run out of resources. If countries invest in renewable energy now, future generations will live in a safer, cleaner world.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Health is one of the most valuable things a person can have. To stay healthy, people need to eat balanced food, exercise regularly, and get enough sleep. A balanced diet includes fruits, vegetables, grains, proteins, and a small amount of fats. Junk food may taste good, but it often contains too much sugar, salt, and oil. Eating it too often can lead to serious health problems such as obesity and heart disease.

Exercise is also very important. Activities like walking, running, and swimming help the body stay strong and give people more energy. Exercise also helps the mind, because it reduces stress and makes people feel happier. Doctors usually recommend at least 30 minutes of exercise most days of the week.

Sleep is another key to good health. Without enough rest, the body and mind become weak. People who do not sleep well may find it hard to concentrate in school or at work.

In conclusion, health depends on simple daily habits. If people eat wisely, move their bodies, and rest properly, they can enjoy long and active lives.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Last Friday, Amal and her classmates joined a community clean-up day. Early in the morning, they met at the park entrance with gloves, bags, and tools. The park, once full of green grass and flowers, looked untidy because of litter and broken benches. Amal felt sad seeing it in such a state.

Their teacher, Mr. Karim, encouraged everyone: "When we work together, we can make a difference." The students were divided into groups. Some picked up plastic bottles, while others painted the old benches. Amal and her friend Lina planted small trees near the playground.

As they worked, passersby stopped to thank them. One old man said, "You remind me of when I was young. We also cared for our city." His words gave the students confidence and energy. By noon, the park looked transformed. The grass was clear of trash, the benches shone with fresh paint, and new saplings stood proudly in the soil.

At the end, Amal smiled. She was tired but proud. She realized that helping the community was not only about cleaning; it was about responsibility, teamwork, and respect. That evening, she wrote in her diary: "Today I learned that even small efforts can bring big changes."

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Often, we believe that to make a difference in the world, we need to do something grand. However, small, simple acts of kindness can have a powerful impact on others and create a positive atmosphere in a community. A smile to a stranger, helping an elderly person carry their groceries, or thanking a bus driver might seem insignificant, but these gestures can brighten someone's entire day.

Consider a student who is having a difficult morning. A friend who notices this and offers a listening ear or a word of encouragement can change the course of that student's day. This simple support can reduce their stress and make them feel valued. Kindness is like a ripple in water; a single good deed can inspire the recipient to be kind to someone else, spreading positivity far and wide.

Furthermore, being kind is not only beneficial for the receiver but also for the person who performs the act. Studies show that helping others releases chemicals in the brain that make us feel happy and reduce our own stress. Therefore, kindness is a two-way street that improves the well-being of everyone involved. By consciously choosing to be kind, we contribute to building a more compassionate and connected society, one small gesture at a time.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

- 15 What is the main idea of the passage?
a) Only big, grand actions can change the world.
b) Small acts of kindness are powerful and beneficial for everyone.
c) Kindness is only important for students.
d) Being kind is a very difficult task.
- 16 From the passage, we can deduce that the author would encourage people to
a) only focus on their own happiness
b) look for opportunities to be kind in small, everyday ways
c) wait for a major opportunity to help others
d) avoid interacting with strangers

- 17 Based on the passage, what is a “mistaken belief” that some people have?
- That smiling is good for health.
 - That only large, grand actions can make a difference.
 - That helping others is easy.
 - That kindness releases chemicals in the brain.
- 18 According to the passage, what is one example of a small act of kindness?
- Buying a new car for someone.
 - Smiling at a stranger.
 - Lending money to a friend in need.
 - Traveling to another country.
- 19 Kindness is like “a ripple in water”. This means that
- it is wet and messy
 - it is only a temporary feeling
 - one act can inspire more kindness, spreading its effect
 - it is only visible in ponds and lakes
- 20 Which of the following is mentioned as a benefit for the person who is kind?
- They become rich.
 - They feel happier and less stressed.
 - They become instantly famous.
 - They never have problems again.
- 21 The main argument in the passage is that we should value small acts of kindness because they
- are easy to forget
 - create a positive impact and are beneficial for all
 - are only useful in schools
 - require a lot of money and planning
- 22 Choose the correct English translation:
- يجب أن تساعد جيرانك والناس من حولك دون أن تتوقع مكافأة؛ القيمة الحقيقية تكمن في ترك أثر طيب.
- You must help your neighbors and people around you if you expect a reward; the real value is in getting it.
 - You must help your neighbors and the people around you without expecting a reward; the true value lies in leaving a good effect.
 - You have to help your neighbors and people around you only when they give you a reward; that is the real value.
 - It's necessary for you to help your neighbors and people around you without expecting a reward; the true value is in leaving a strong impact.

القرينة ٢٠٢٢

Decent Life or 'Haya Karima' is the motto of the initiative launched recently as a national project aiming to improve the quality of life for the people in the Egyptian countryside, and raise the efficiency of the services provided to them. Most villages in Egypt suffer shortage in some development services and facilities such as clean water networks, sanitation, gas, electricity, schools and hospitals. The initiative deals with developing agricultural projects in various areas within Egypt. It provides marketing and investing solutions to these lands in addition to all relevant businesses associated with the project including the division of lands and proposing it to investors, small farmers and the youths for the cultivation and development of these lands. The aim is to achieve sustainable development in this area through developing regional communities and attracting the Egyptian investors and other small farmers and the youths to live and work in it. Regarding the countryside development, Egypt seeks to treat the wastewater which is dumped into sea or lakes, with the treated water to be reused in new projects across Sinai. Thus a total of 100,000 feddans will be ready for agricultural use in Sinai using the treated water.
